{ encounters of the nice kind }

“Jack is always ordering ‘roti prata’ and me, ‘wonton mee’. I’ve relied on Rai to bail me out on many occasions. We poke fun at each other and call each other names. Our friendship is not just about music. My name is on Jack’s wedding certificate as a witness. Rai is part of my family.”

They met because of a mix-up in schedules but struck the right chord in each other to form Jack & Rai, a popular duo. Instead of avoiding discussions about their race and cultural differences, they found them to be wonderful conversational topics.
